Cloud service provider scanplus from Ulm to restructure itself under debtor-in-possession proceedings

8 September 2021 · Ulm · Business Area: Restructuring

Cloud service provider scanplus has filed an application for the opening of debtor-in-possession insolvency proceedings. The company will be supported in the proceedings by a PLUTA restructuring team under Dr Maximilian Pluta and Mr Stefan Warmuth, also general agents of scanplus GmbH. The Local Court of Ulm ordered the provisional debtor-in-possession proceedings and appointed Professor Dr Martin Hörmann from law firm Anchor Rechtsanwälte as provisional insolvency monitor. He will monitor the proceedings while representing the interests of creditors.

The company had to file for insolvency due to liquidity problems. In the first half of 2021, the company posted declining sales due to project delays that were outside of the company's control. Liquidity problems then resulted from the higher costs and additional investment associated with these projects.

IT services available as usual

The company will remain fully operational during the debtor-in-possession proceedings, with all IT and other services still on offer. The persons responsible informed the 239 employees of the situation today during a staff meeting. The employees' salaries are guaranteed for a period of three months thanks to specific substitute benefits provided under German insolvency law.

The cost and sales positions have already been analysed. In the coming weeks, scanplus will implement the planned restructuring programme. The goal is to achieve a viable solution for the business – by means of an insolvency plan or investor.

Mr Andreas Werther, founder and managing director of scanplus GmbH, said, “We are taking the opportunity to equip ourselves for the future under these proceedings with the help of experienced restructuring experts. Our highly motivated employees are all pulling together with us. This gives us a good basis for the coming weeks.” Mr Jürgen Hörmann, founder and managing director, added, “Our customers will not be impacted by us having filed this application. They can continue to count on the reliability and security of our services.”

Insolvency monitor Professor Dr Martin Hörmann from law firm Anchor Rechtsanwälte said, “Debtor-in-possession proceedings are a suitable instrument to restructure companies and make them fit for the future. We will provide assistance to the company while representing the interests of creditors.”

About the proceedings

Debtor-in-possession proceedings ensure that the company concerned has a reliable basis for planning and also allow creditors' interests to be taken into account. The company is permitted to manage the restructuring process itself, supported by experienced restructuring experts and supervised by an insolvency monitor. The management board remains in office during debtor-in-possession proceedings and continues to make its own decisions.

The PLUTA team is made up of Dr Maximilian Pluta, Mr Stefan Warmuth and Mr Simon Eickmann.
